ESTORIA · THE KEEPERS

Adam and the Red Flame

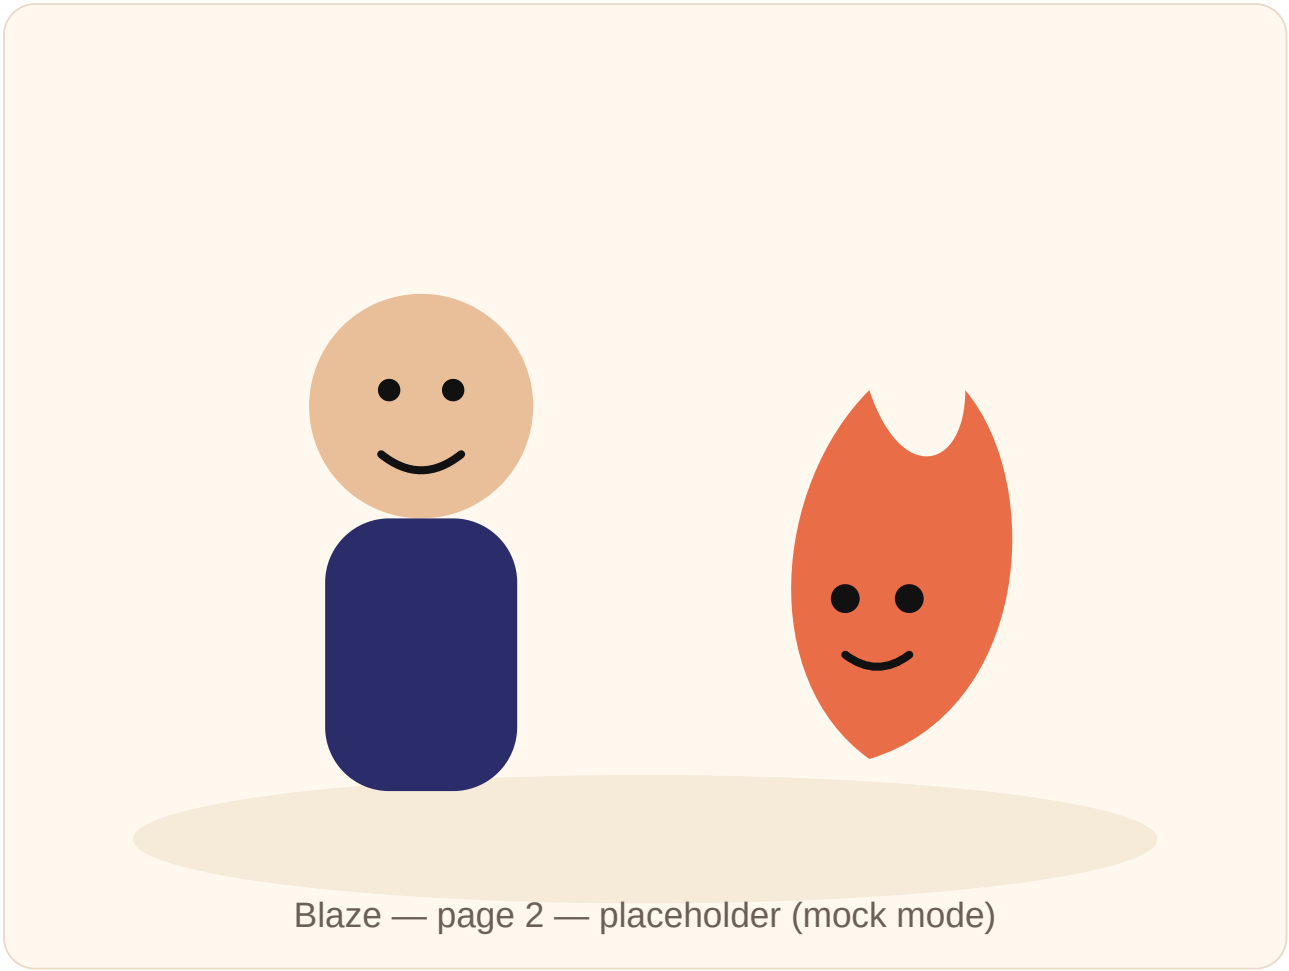

Starring Adam · with Blaze, Keeper of Fire

Adam was practising football at the football pitch behind the house when a strange crackling sound came from behind him.

Crackle. Pop. Hissss.

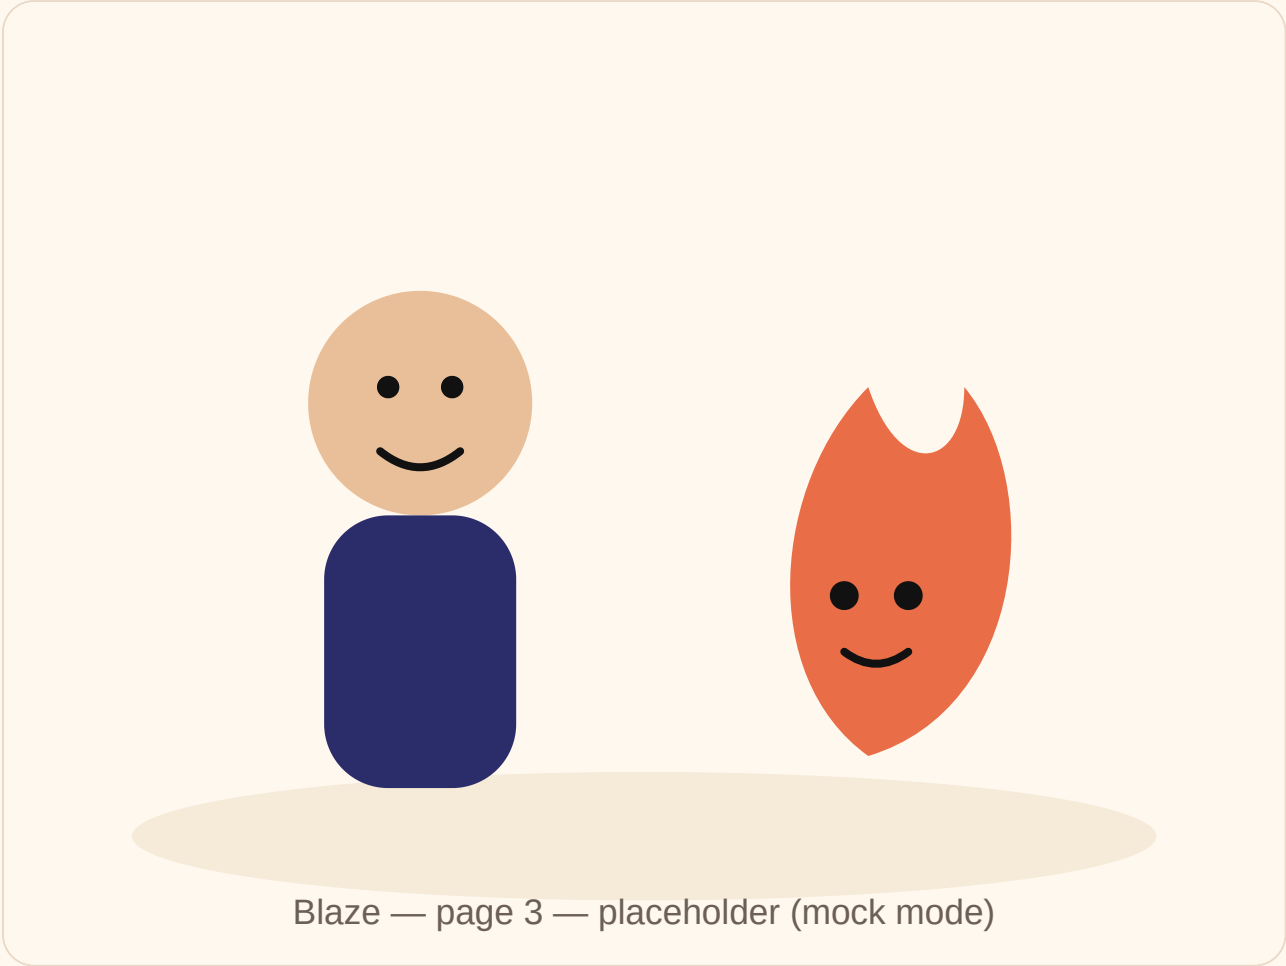

He turned around.

There, hovering just above the ground, was a small flame-creature with big round eyes.

"Oh no, oh no, oh no," the creature was saying. "Not again."

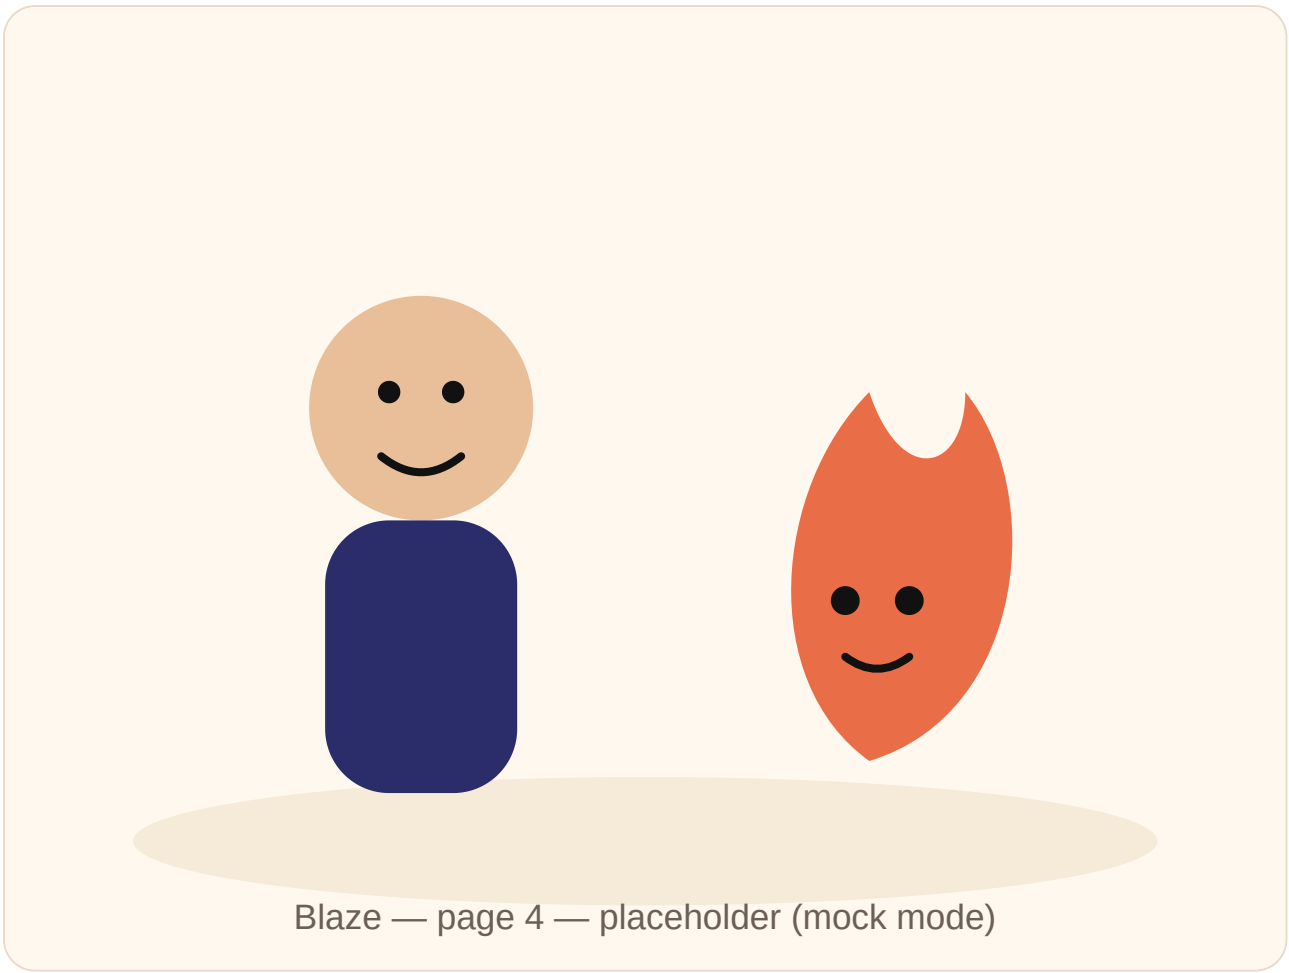

The grass around him was scorched black. And his favourite football ball — Adam's favourite — lay in the middle of it, singed at the edges.

"I'm Blaze," said the creature, drooping. "Keeper of Fire. My job is to keep the fire warm and bright. But today it went red."

"Red?" asked Adam.

"When something goes wrong, I get HOT. And then my flame goes red and spiky, and I can't stop it, and then—" He looked at the scorched grass. "Then I burn the things I love."

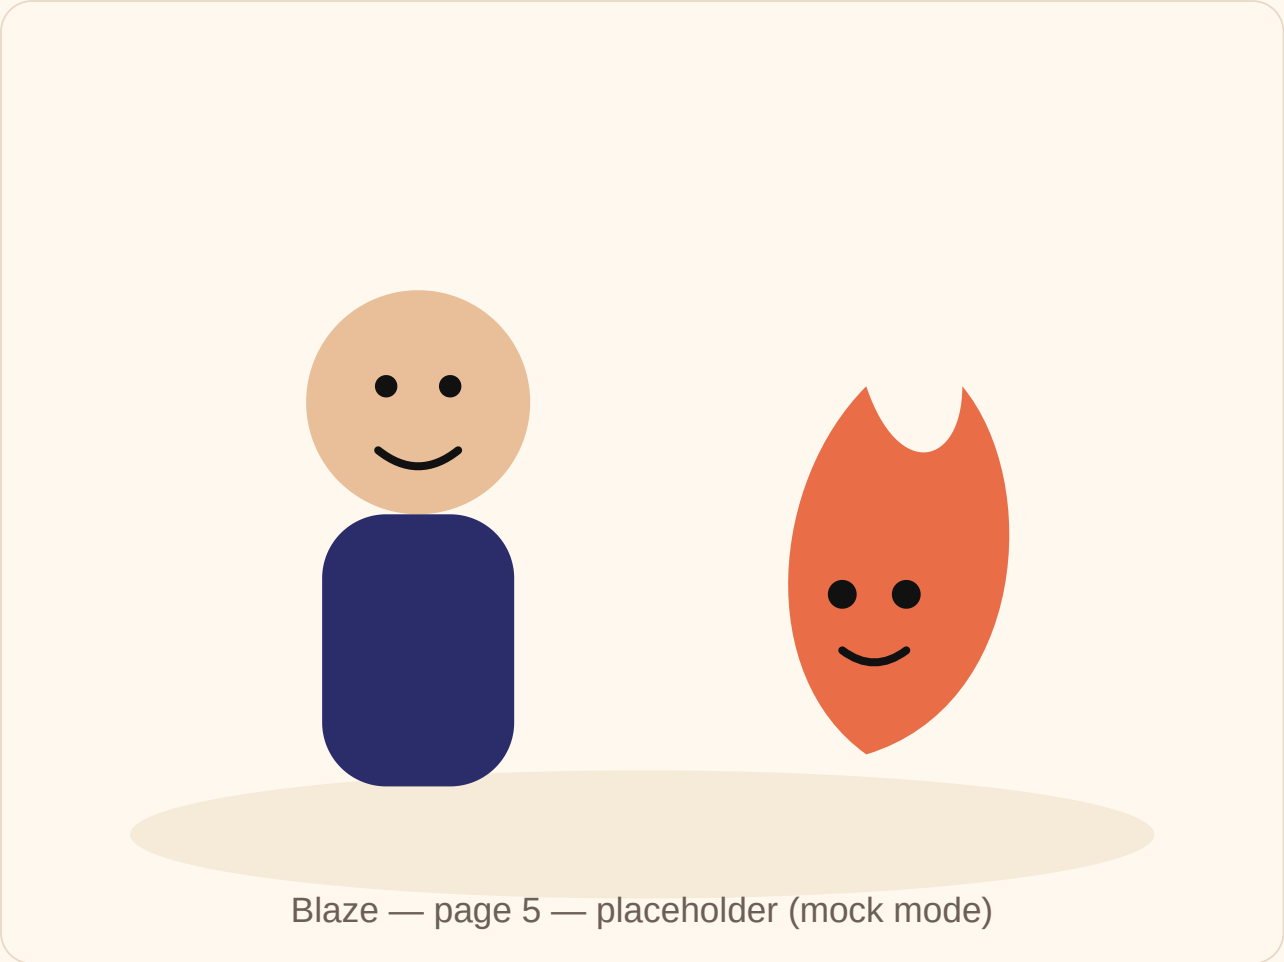

Adam looked at Blaze's flame. It was red. It was jagged. And it was shaking, just a little.

Adam knew that feeling.

Sometimes, when someone touched Adam's things, he felt the hot thing too — and shouted "That's not fair!" before he could stop it.

"It just happens," said Adam. "Really fast."

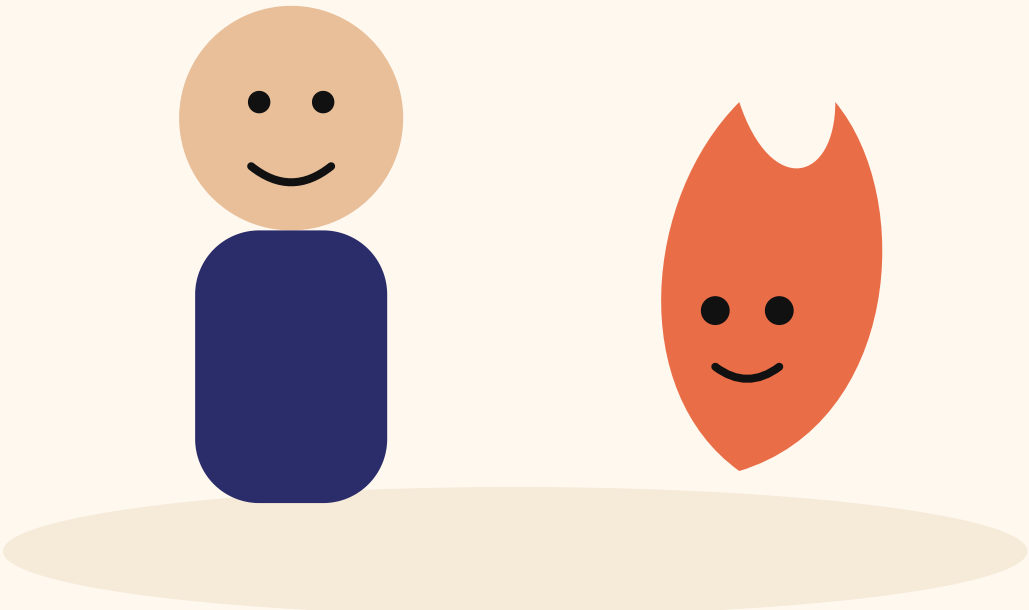

"Exactly!" said Blaze. "Really fast. Like a match. And nobody told me what to do about it."

Just then, Omar came running over. "What's that smell? Is something burning?"

"Maybe," said Adam slowly, "we have to find out together."

Blaze's eyes went wide. "You'd help me? Even after I burned his favourite football ball?"

"Especially after," said Adam.

Blaze — page 6 — placeholder (mock mode)

Blaze pointed across the football pitch behind the house. "There's a place — the Cool Pond. The old Keepers used to go there when their fire got too big. But the way is tricky, and when I'm red I can't think straight."

"Then I'll think for both of us," said Adam.

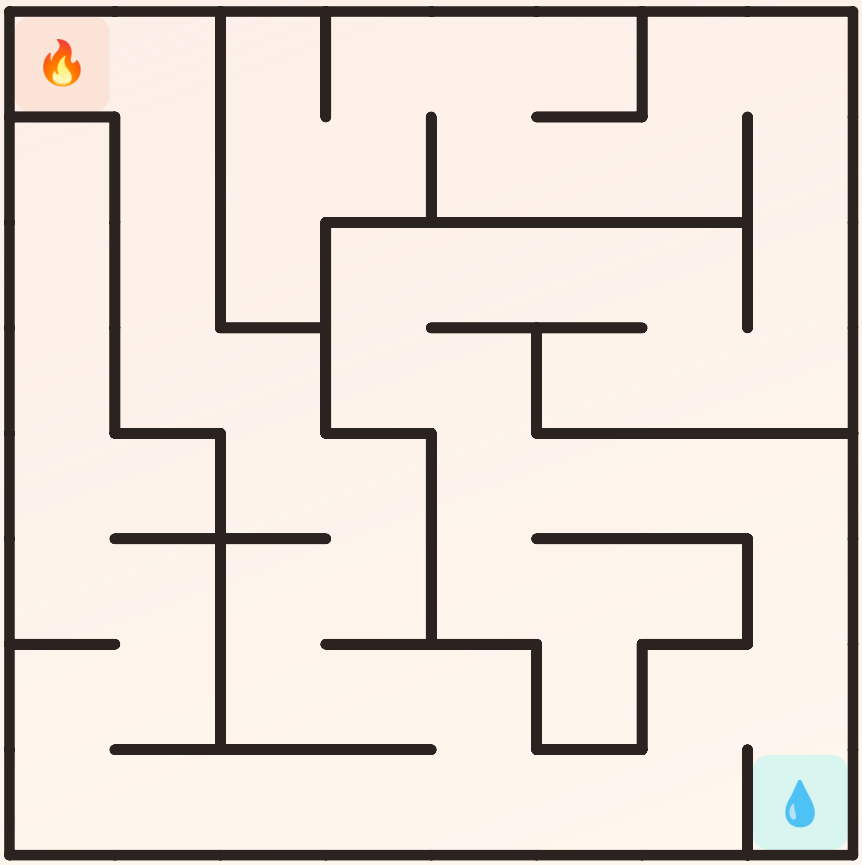

"One rule," said Blaze. "At every turn, we stop and take one slow breath. Fire hates slow breaths."

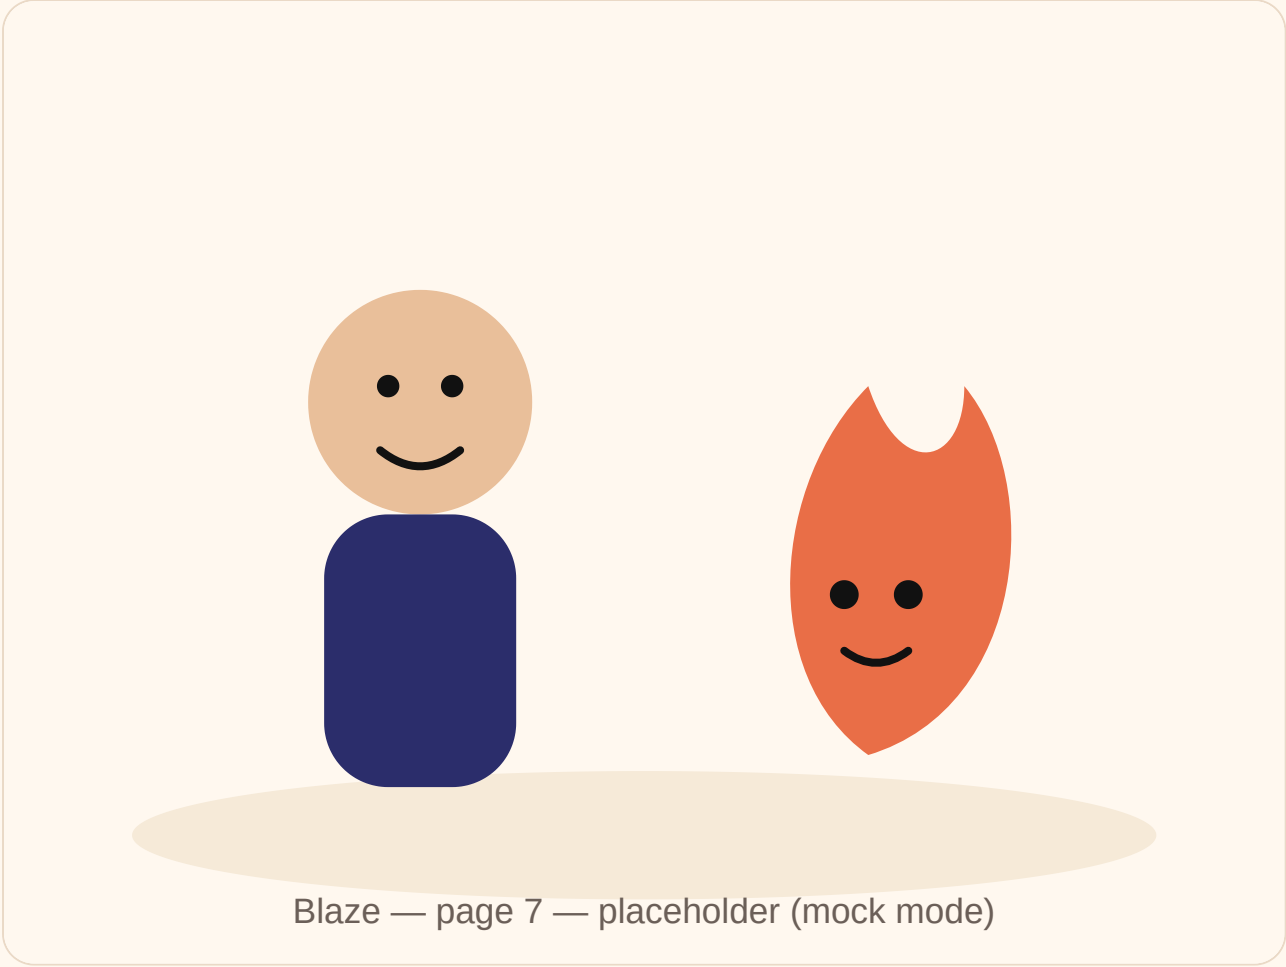

CHALLENGE

Blaze needs your help, Adam!

Blaze's maze

Help Blaze find the way. At every turn, take one slow breath.

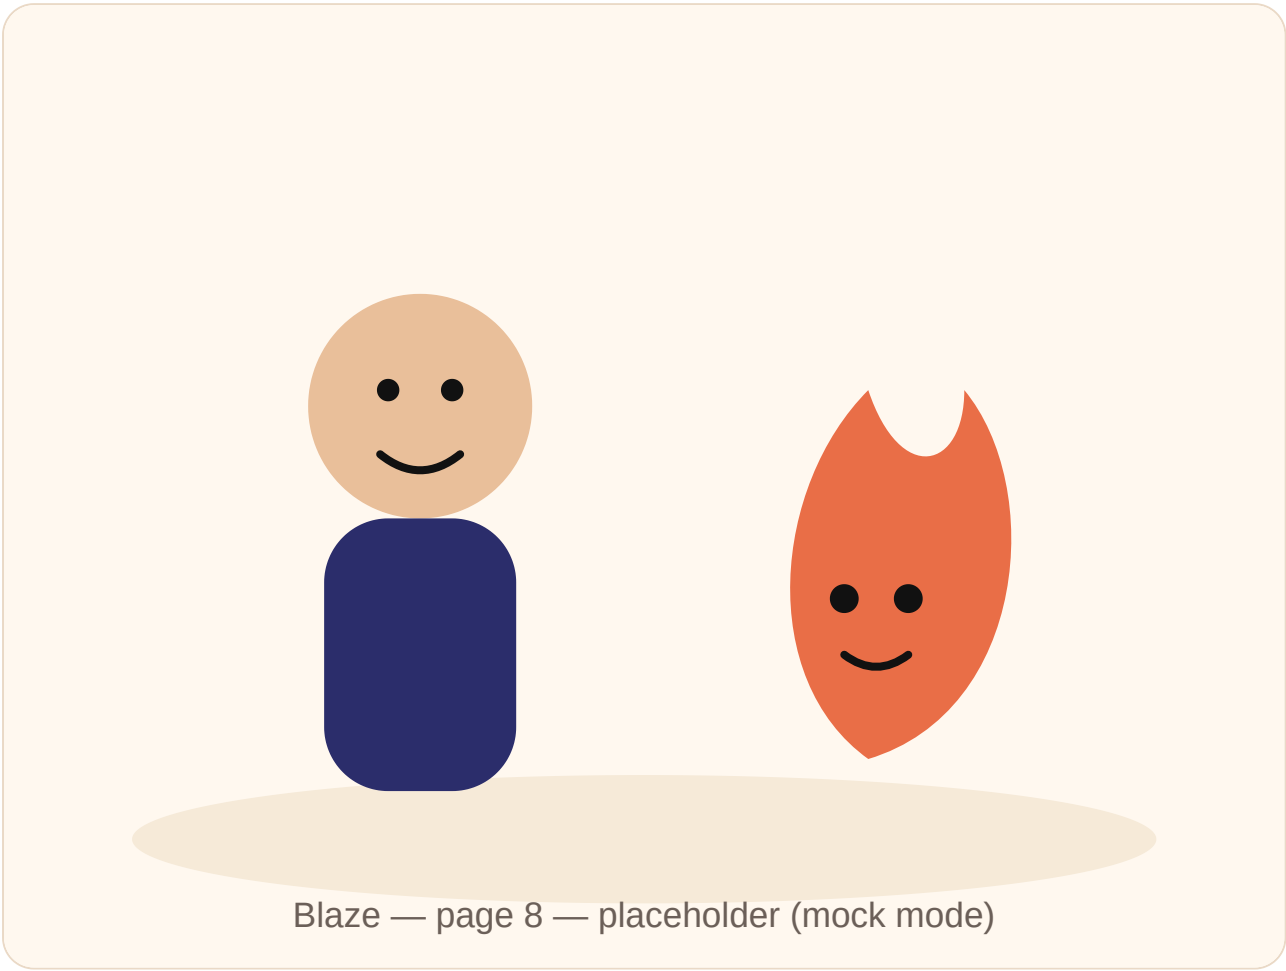

At the Cool Pond, Blaze floated down to the water's edge.

Breathe in. Breathe out. In. Out.

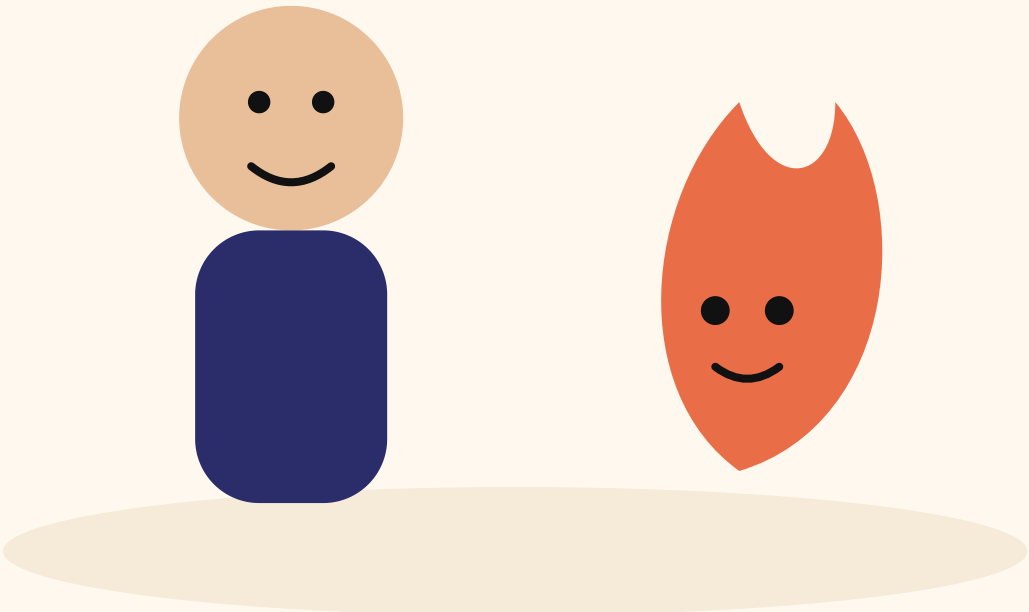

His flame flickered. The red softened to orange. The orange faded to gold. And then, very slowly, it turned a calm, steady blue.

"It's still fire," Blaze whispered, looking at his reflection. "I thought the only way to stop being red was to stop being fire. But it's just... my fire now. I'm holding it."

Adam grinned.

"Blue Blaze," he said. "I like it."

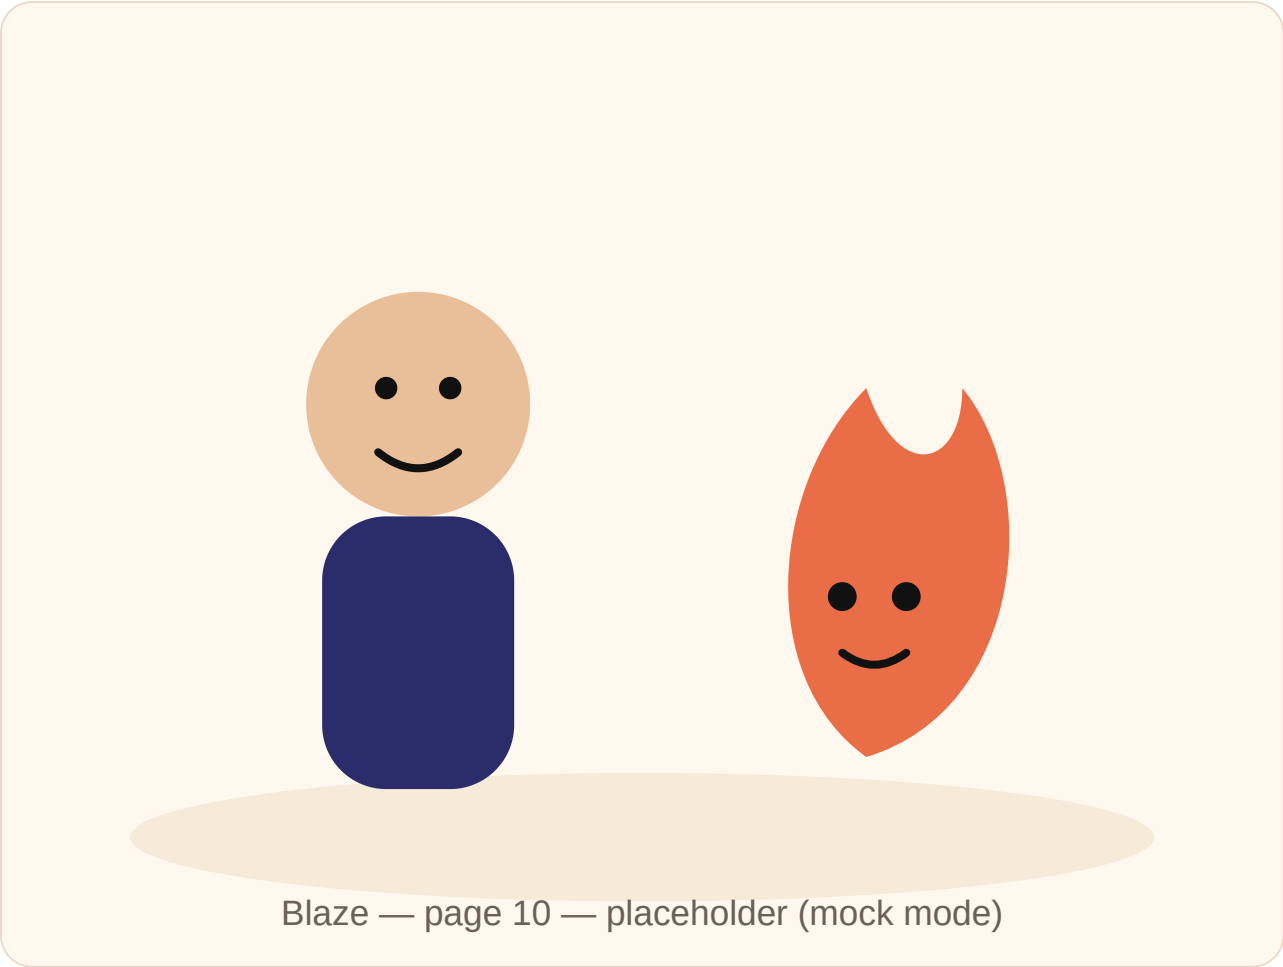

Blaze — page 9 — placeholder (mock mode)

They walked back together. The grass was still a bit black. his favourite football ball was still a bit singed. But Blaze didn't droop this time.

"Next time I feel the hot thing," said Blaze, "I'm going to find my blue first."

Adam thought about it. About the fast feeling, and the slow breath, and the pond.

"Me too," said Adam. "Next time, I'm going to find my blue."

And that is how Adam became the Official Helper of Blaze, Keeper of Fire.

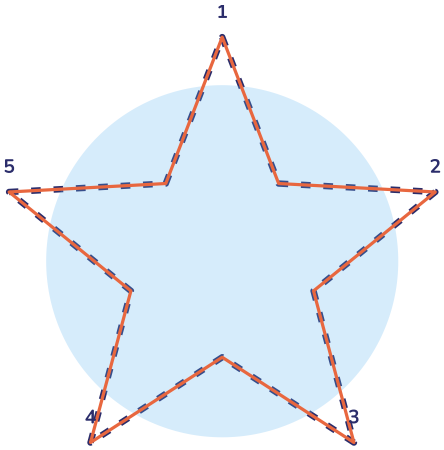

Blaze still gets hot sometimes. So does Adam.

But now they both know the way to the Cool Pond — one slow breath at a time.

The End.

Breathing star

Trace the star: breathe in on the up-lines, out on the down-lines.

In for 4 · hold for 2 · out for 4. Five times around.

BLAZE'S WORKSHOP

Feelings thermometer

Colour how big the feeling is — before and after the breath.

BLAZE'S WORKSHOP

My calm-down toolbox

Cut out the cards. Pick your 3 favourite calm tools. ✂️

Take 5 slow breaths	Count back from 10	Drink some water
Squeeze a soft ball	Walk to a quiet spot	Say: I need a minute

OFFICIAL CERTIFICATE

Adam

Official Helper of Blaze

Keeper of Fire · Keepersland

Keeper's signature

Date

How to read this with Adam

- Read it together, and let your child solve the challenge themselves.
- When Blaze changes, ask: "What helped?"
- Come back to the Workshop on another day — it doesn't have to be all at once.

Questions to talk about afterwards

1. What made Blaze turn red?
2. Adam, when do you feel the hot thing?
3. What helped Blaze find his blue?
4. Can we try the Cool Pond breath together right now?